Overview

This fast-paced novel is ideal for students at Years 5 and 6, but will be enjoyed for its amusing and clever plot by students in Year 7 and less able readers in Year 8. Joel tells the story. He lives with his Gran and has problems staying focused and paying attention. His Gran understands him, and so does his other ally, Mei Pham. The one thing that Joel is good at is fishing, but he has never been able to enter the fishing competition run in the small town where he lives, as he doesn't have a father. Joel thinks up a brilliant way to get a father - by advertising in the paper. Dev Eagle replies and he and Joel get along well - until a great deal unfolds about Joel's parents and their past. Everything looks as though it will be ruined, but the story ends happily for all. In the process, both Joel and the reader learn a lot of important things about life.

• You are the school psychologist. Do a character study of Joel saying what he is like as a person, what motivates him and what his relationships with other people are like (his Gran, Mei, Shawn Houser and his teachers). Describe his family background. What does he do? What is his attitude and self-image? What does he think of himself? What are his interests? What are his problems? What he is good at?
